

'THE HEART GROWS FAINT ...'

Secret Agent OGP-0002 Leaks Some Deep Secrets

CPYRGHT

Don't ask OGP-0002 what he did last week-end.

It's a secret.

Just about everything OGP-0002 does nowadays is secret.

Who's OGP-0002? Not a CIA operative. Nor even a British secret agent. He's Rep. Otis G. Pike (D., N.Y.).

After looking around the Armed Services Committee, of which he is a member, Rep. Pike decided he needed a secret title, such as OGP-0002, when he found so many things secret.

SHSSHH!

After seeing the word "secret" stamped everywhere, Rep. Pike did a little investigating. He found that during the two years of the last Congress the Armed Services Committee held 127 meetings, mostly secret. Sub-committees held 239 more meetings, many "even more secret."

Rep. Pike said the only thing he knows about a sub-committee concerned with the CIA is who is on it. He said he doesn't have any idea what the group does.

The Congressman also points to the first page of testimony before his own sub-committee by Army Secretary Stephen Ailes. It was stamped in red ink "secret" at the top, "secret" at the bottom.

HERE IT IS!

Rep. Pike revealed the entire page: "Stephen Ailes was born in Romney, W. Va., the son of Eugene E. Ailes and Sally Cornwell Ailes. He spent his boyhood in Scarborough, N.Y., where he attended the Scarborough school..."

Rep. Pike says it went on in this vein for a full secretive page. "The heart grows faint at the thought of the incalculable damage which this information in the hands of our enemies might wreak."

About last week-end, Rep. Pike's sub-committee went to California "on a secret mission." But he says, that "the enemy will get nothing from me." Neither will his wife,

"I shall smile my steeliest smile and give nothing but my name, rank and serial number —OGP-0002—to my wife," Rep. Pike said. (UPI)
